

Pour Yourself a Glass and Settle In...

Introducing Sweet Tea & Stethoscopes: Spilling the Tea on Nursing and Beyond in South Carolina!

The South Carolina Nurses Association (SCNA) is thrilled to announce the launch of our brand-new podcast — Sweet Tea & Stethoscopes!

Available now on all major podcast platforms, this exciting new series brings together nurses, healthcare leaders, policymakers, and community voices to have real, refreshing, and sometimes raw conversations about the state of nursing and healthcare in South Carolina and beyond.

Our signature opening says it all:

"Pour yourself a glass and settle in... This is Sweet Tea and Stethoscopes — Spilling the Tea on Nursing and Beyond in South Carolina, brought to you by the South Carolina Nurses Association."

Each episode dives into the issues that matter most; from advocacy and policy to professional development, workplace culture, and the personal journeys that define who we are as nurses. Expect insightful interviews, laughter, inspiration, and yes... a little Southern-style "tea" along the way.

Hosted by T.K. Curtis-Pugh, Executive Director of SCNA and Ryan Fox, SCNA Director Seat 2 (Membership), alongside SCNA leaders, special guests and nursing leaders from across the state, Sweet Tea & Stethoscopes celebrates the power, resilience, and innovation of nurses who are the heartbeat of healthcare.

So, grab your favorite mug (or mason jar), hit play, and join the conversation. Because in South Carolina, the tea is sweet, the nurses are bold, and the stories are unforgettable. ■

SCNA would like to extend congratulatory greetings to the hospitals in South Carolina that are currently a Pathway to Excellent institution or an ANCC Magnet Institution

Nurses Helping Nurses

Peer Assistance Program in Nursing (PAPIN) is a support group for nurses with substance use disorders. It collaborates with the Recovering Professionals Program (RPP) assisting nurses in getting their professional and personal lives back on track to sustain the recovery abilities of nurse participants across South Carolina.

PAPIN meets every 2nd Tuesday of the month, virtually at 5:30PM. For meeting access and other helpful information go to <https://www.scnurses.org/page/PAPIN>
